SCENE 1

Jessica is in her office when Ousman, a visiting colleague from another office, walks in.

OUSMAN: Hello Jessica!

JESSICA: (seeming somewhat distracted) Ousman, oh my, I haven't seen you in so long. I heard you'd be visiting us here.

OUSMAN: What's wrong? Everything okay?

JESSICA: It's great to see you, but now that you're here, there's something that you could help me with....

OUSMAN: I am happy to help.

JESSICA: Last night, I was checking FacePlace and I saw that some friends of mine were commenting on a post that Katrina had also commented on. You know Katrina, right? The new team member I hired who we've talked about before? I read her comments, and there were a lot of them. And they're over a long period of time, all through work hours.

OUSMAN: That's a problem.

JESSICA: But that's only half of it. I noticed that some of the information she posted could be considered proprietary, or at least competition sensitive.

OUSMAN: Sounds like you've got to do something.

JESSICA: Well, the thing is that we are not just manager and employee, we've become friends. We go out to lunch. And it isn't just that, we've become friends outside of work, too. Our families have even gone out together. I know I need to talk to her, but I'm not sure how.
